

Ramp up your course reading materials preparation with

FLEX«

FLEX is an online platform developed by the Copyright Agency to help librarians, content managers and educators prepare course reading material simply and efficiently.

With FLEX you can store, manage and access your content in one central place.

Course material extracts that can be delivered via FLEX include:

Your own scans uploaded to the FLEX platform.

Scans uploaded from other institutions using FLEX.

High resolution e-textbook extracts and journal articles from major publishers.

High-quality on-demand scans from the British Library.

FLEX is available to all individually licensed educational institutions as part of their Statutory Education Licence.

Compliance/risk mitigation: the distribution of content used under your licence is centralised and controlled.

Quality learning experience: better content quality and consistency of links makes learning easier, thus enhancing your institution's brand.

Usage reporting: FLEX provides student engagement insights (total visits and average duration of views).

Improved productivity: units and content are retained in the cloud and can be rolled out easily and quickly for a new cohort of students and from one year to another.

Ready to streamline your course reading materials preparation?
Request a FLEX account

FLEX«

This infographic is a guide only. Please refer to your agreement for full terms & conditions.